

Need to add some color and shape to your lips, fill in those brows, or want to hide unsightly scars? For many notable Hollywood women, Jessica Canseco has been doing just that.

Most reality shows have at least one “normal” character (or seemingly normal), the one stable force you might even consider grabbing coffee with. Take The Beverly Hills Housewives, for instance. Who wouldn’t want to chit-chat over shrimp scampi with Lisa Vanderpump? Or go bowling with Jeff Lewis from Bravo’s Flipping Out? Or let Michelle Duggar from 19 Kids and Counting babysit your own. Which brings us to VH-1’s new dramafest, Hollywood Exes, where the divorcees of famous men are thrown into the fiery pit of unnecessary controversy.

There’s Nicole Murphy (Eddie’s ex), Sheree Fletcher (Will Smith’s ex), Andrea Kelly (ex of R. Kelly), Mayte Garcia (ex of some guy formerly known as...well, you know), and our featured player, Jessica Canseco. She’s the show’s most normal, who really is a small-town gal from Ashland, Ohio. Jessica has two exes: Jose Canseco, the ex-baseball player; and Dr. Garth Fisher, the Beverly Hills plastic surgeon best known for being on that ex ABC show Extreme Makeover.

For the past five years, Jessica’s owned a successful highbrow medical aesthetic career. She’s a paramedical and cosmetic tattoo specialist with her practice in the platinum triangle of Beverly Hills. What that means is she can fill in your needy brows, add some pink to your lips, or line on some permanent mascara. “Basically, the goal,” as Jessica tells us, “isn’t to make it look like you just popped out of the makeup chair, but that you look natural, refreshed and glowing 24/7/365.”

The flipside of these purely cosmetic treatments are Jessica’s incredibly serious procedures. After the tragedy of mastectomy, in the final phase of a patient’s restoration, she’s able to create a natural-looking three-dimensional areola (around the nipple), helping to boost a woman’s confidence and self-esteem. In other instances, she’s able to cover up the embarrassment of hair loss or hide unsightly scars using special camouflaging tattoo treatments.

While her bread and butter comes from adding tattoos, Jessica’s future plans might involve a laser to remove them. Because even though we’re smart enough to know that love isn’t always forever, that 2 a.m. tattoo with your ex’s name seemed like a really good idea at the time.—SC

For more information on Jessica Canseco’s medical aesthetic services, visit jessicacanseco.com

Azzedine Alaïa black gown, $4116, [Saks Fifth Avenue Beverly Hills](http://Saks Fifth Avenue Beverly Hills)
 Joan Hornig Georgette yellow citrine earrings, $970, joanhornig.com
 Dana Rebecca Designs ring, $5940, danarebeccadesigns.com
 Melinda Maria bangles, $115, melindamaria.com
 Giuseppe Zanotti platform, GiuseppeZanottiDesign.com

Photographer: Victoria Buesing / victoriabuesingphotography.com; Stylist: Sarah Najafi / sarahsophia.co; Makeup: Anabel Deharen / Artists by Timothy Pinao; Hair: Christina Boras / Artists by Timothy Pinao; Location: Smastbox Studios